The Texas Commission on Community College Finance will make recommendations for consideration by the 88th Texas Legislature regarding the state funding formula and funding levels for public junior colleges in Texas that would be sufficient to sustain viable junior college education and training offerings throughout the state and improve student outcomes in alignment with state postsecondary goals.

The Commission will convene no later than October 15, 2021, and will continue its activities until completion of a final report.

The Commission includes 12 members:

- The feasibility of establishing shared service agreements or interinstitutional collaborations where institutions of higher education may perform administrative services, other than direct instruction and student support services, for other institutions of higher education for a fee or other consideration

The Commission may examine and make recommendations on other policy and finance matters, including:

- workforce demand and skills gaps;
- dual credit programs and costs;

Date: Wednesday, May 25, 10:00pm – 2:30pm CST
Discussion Topic: Organizational Meeting
Description: The Community College Finance Steering Committee will convene to establish an understanding of the purpose and scope for the committee’s future efforts. An emphasis will be placed on understanding how the steering committee will potentially operate alongside and support the official Texas Commission on Community College Finance. During the meeting, the steering committee will also propose ground rules for future meetings and propose a “road map” of topics to investigate in the coming months.

Date: Wednesday, July 7, 10:00pm – 2:30pm CST
Discussion Topic: “The Future Higher Education Landscape of Texas”
Description: A business-friendly environment, low statewide unemployment, affordable cost of living, and an abundance of natural resources are a few reasons why Texas’ population has grown over the past decades. As a result of this growth, Texas’ population has become increasingly more diverse compared to previous generations. These rapid demographic changes create new opportunities and challenges for Texas community colleges, as they adapt to educating an increasingly diverse student population. During this meeting, the steering committee will review Texas demographic data trends to understand the implications for Texas’ community colleges.

Date: Wednesday, July 28, 10:00pm – 2:30pm CST
Discussion Topic: “Typology of Community College Finance Modalities”
Description: Texas’ community colleges are uniquely situated to address growing issues of equity and access to higher education faced by today’s students across the state. These higher education institutions serve all students regardless of background and preparation, are located close to where students live and work, and are pivotal in efforts to reduce economic inequality. While Texas’ community colleges are praised for their ability to educate students and prepare a talented workforce, these institutions can only succeed if they are adequately funded. During this meeting, the steering committee will review the typology of community college finance modalities with an emphasis on the state and local components that shape each model.
